Depression and Bipolar Support Alliance Day

July 19, 2011

The City of Houston and the Houston Community College

In recognition of the importance of mental health in our community, the City of Houston and the Houston Community College hereby declare July 19, 2011, as Depression and Bipolar Support Alliance Day.

The City of Houston encourages all businesses, organizations, and individuals to participate in activities promoting awareness and support for individuals with depression and bipolar disorder. The City of Houston recognizes the importance of mental health and encourages all individuals to seek help when needed.

In support of this effort, the City of Houston encourages all businesses, organizations, and individuals to participate in activities promoting awareness and support for individuals with depression and bipolar disorder. The City of Houston recognizes the importance of mental health and encourages all individuals to seek help when needed.

The City of Houston encourages all businesses, organizations, and individuals to participate in activities promoting awareness and support for individuals with depression and bipolar disorder. The City of Houston recognizes the importance of mental health and encourages all individuals to seek help when needed.

The City of Houston encourages all businesses, organizations, and individuals to participate in activities promoting awareness and support for individuals with depression and bipolar disorder. The City of Houston recognizes the importance of mental health and encourages all individuals to seek help when needed.